

Actually, Zooming Marvellous

- a play reading activity

- o We meet on the 2nd Wednesday of each month at a member's home.
- o There, the plays (chosen from a library stock) are given out and group members are given "a part" to read. These are one-act plays that usually last for just over the hour.
- o At the end of the play reading, we have coffee and biscuits and a chat about the play. We give £1 towards our host's costs.
- o Currently, our group is full, but if you would like your name to be added to a waiting list, please contact the group leader or the u3a office, or indeed consider setting up another such group!

Recent plays read by

Actually, Zooming Marvellous

Our first play, read using Zoom in “Lockdown”, was The Wind in the willows by Alan Bennett, quite a challenge for our initiation!

Below, however, are a few of the plays we have read over the last 7 months:

- o A Handbag by Anthony Horowitz
- o Nudes in Waning Light by George Brockhill
- o The Bald Prima Donna (or The Bald Soprano) by Eugene Ionesco (Theatre of the Absurd)
- o The Orchestra by Jean Anouilh
- o Two Fat Men by Gillian Plowman
- o Parochial Problems by Margaret Wood
- o The Dame of Sark by William Douglas Home